HORSEMEN WILL HOLD MEETING AT CALDER'S PARK COMING WEEK

Horse racing is dead at Agricultural park, and now Calder's park will take a fling at the "sport of kings." About a week ago this paper printed a story to the effect that all was not serene in horse racing eircles in this city, and that races would be promoted at both places. A campaign of vigorous denials was the result. But, as usual, "If it happens it is here it is right." And, as announced a week ago, there will be races at Calder's park.

For the past several days a number of local horsemen interested in the sport have been arranging a meeting to be held at Calder's, and last night announced that there would be two days' racing down there. The dates set are next Friday and Saturday, and the races are open to the world. Manager S. H. Love of the Calder's track announced last evening that he would not bar any of the horses that raced on the state fair.

BEN J IS PROTESTED AS THE NOTED RACE HORSE RINGER, FRED WILTON

Is Ben J, the horse which won the special trot and pace at the fair grounds on Purple day, the famous ringer, Fred Wilton? This is what Manager W. S. Jones would like to know; also the judges at the fair grounds; also the judges at the fair grounds; also the other horsemen who had steeds entered in this race. Splers brothers of this city think that the horse is not Fred Wilton. Ben J. is entered from Anthony, Kan., under the American Racing association in hot water for the past few years, and so strong are they in the bellef that they have entered a protest. Fred Wilton, with a mark of 2:09%, traveling under various names, is shipped around the country as a ringer and generally collects the money before the officials, some declaring that Ben J was the horse in duestion and others that he was not. Manager Jones tapped the telegraph wires yesterday to try to get a line on Ben J. and said the money would not be paid over untif he was thoroughly satisfied over untif he was thoroughly satisfied over untif he was thoroughly satisfied to the officials, some declaring that Ben J was the horse in duestion and others that he was not. DELMAR TRACK IS CLOSED.

Stockholders Tire of Daily Raiding and Stop the Racing-Folk Still After Them.

St. Louis, July 28.-There was no raiding or racing at Delmar race track to-day, the track having been temporarily closed by order of the stockholders of the Delmar Jockey club, who held a con-ference earlier in the day with their attorneys and decided to suspend opera-tions pending the decision of the supreme court on the writ of prohibition granted by Judge Marshall prohibiting the ounty officers from interfering in any county officers from interfering in any way with the St. Louis police officials at Deimar track.

In accordance with Governor Folk's orders to raid the track daily in enforcement of the anti-pool selling law, detectives went to the track today, as has been customary, to telephone for the raiding squad of police, if refused admittance, but the regular raiding tactics were not carried out. Before the entrance hung the following notice:

"Closed."
The detectives quickly notified Chief Kiely of the situation and he ordered the reserves of police to scatter to their respective districts. The only persons at the track were horsemen who were making hurried arrangements for shipping their horses to other race points.

And her feature of the day was the proceading of Attorney General Hadley in Jefferson City, who filed a petition in quo warrante proceedings in the supreme court seeking to annul the charter of the Delmar Jockey club and the forfeiture of the property to the state, on the grounds of alleged misure of the club's charter. Judge Marshall set Oct. 10 as the date for the respondent to appear and show cause before the supreme court why such action should not be taken.

When notified over the long distance telephone that Delmar half suspended operations, Governor Folk said:

"I am glad of it. The law has been whaleasted. What has happened in the race track cases should prove a lesson to the others who dare defy the laws of Mis-
